Auburn Takes First Two Games From Greensboro By Brilliant Playing.

The Work of the Team Was a Surprise to Everybody.

The first series of games of baseball was played last Friday and Saturday on the campus and were, taking everything in consideration, fine exhibitions of fast, clean playing. Each team went into these games with the full determination to win. It was generally conceded that Greensboro would take at least one of the first two games and here is where the great surprise sprung. There can be no praise too great for the excellent work that our team exhibited. The base running was extra good. Jewett, Walker and McCarroll were far beyond the average. The pitching of Sorrell and Hogg was phenomenal, Sorrell striking out eleven men in the first and Hogg seven in the second. As to batting, the team did a great deal more than was expected, this being considered one of their weakest points.

The following is the game in detail of the first game:

First inning—Greensboro took the bat. Gamble went to first base, stole second on Elmer's error on James' hit; James retired attempting to steal second; Cleveland out from Sorrell to Elmer, 1 run.

Auburn—McCarroll hit with pitched ball, went to second on wild pitch; Walker out to right field; Jewett out attempting to steal second; McCarroll out at plate, trying to score on throw.

Second inning—Greensboro—Thomson hits safe, stole second, but was caught by Sorrell of base; Skinner out from Lay to Elmer; Walker out from Sequira to Elmer.

Auburn—Sorrell out to Gamble; Lay did likewise; Hogg went to first base on balls, stole second, scored on Elmer's two-base hit; Sequira safe on first by pitcher's error; Jackson out to short-stop.

Third inning—Greensboro—Sessions safe on Elmer's error; Watkins struck out; Gamble hit safe, scoring Sessions; Gamble out attempting to steal second; Dunlap to first on balls, James out from Sequira to Elmer.

Auburn—McCarroll out to second base; Walker out from pitcher to first; Jewett got a pass and scored on Sorrell's two-base hit; Lay reached first on Gamble's error; Sorrell scoring; Hogg out to second base.

Fourth inning—Greensboro—Cleveland safe on first by Elmer's error; Thomson gets base on balls; both advance on pass ball; Skinner gets base on balls; Cleveland, Thomson and Skinner score on wild pitch and pass ball; Watkins struck out; Gamble out to Hogg. From this point Greensboro neither scores nor hits safe on Sorrell, Auburn playing a fine fielding game. Auburn did not score again until the sixth inning, when Sorrell led off with a safe hit, Lay the same; Hogg hit by pitched ball; Elmer struck out; Sequira hits safe, scoring Sorrell and Lay; Jackson struck out; McCarroll hit for three bases, scoring Hogg and Sequira; Walker out to left field.

In the seventh inning Jewett hit safe and scored on Sorrell's two-base hit; in the next inning Sequira was hit by pitcher, followed by four safe hits and an error gave Auburn four more runs.

Two-base hits, Sorrell two and Elmer one; Three-base hit, McCarroll; struck out by Sorrell 11; Watkins 5; base on balls, Sorrell 6, Watkins 2; Wild pitches, Sorrell 3, Watkins 3; Hit by pitched ball, McCarroll, Hogg, Sequira and Watkins; stolen bases, Auburn 5, Greensboro 5; double plays, Waller to Dunlap, and Gamble to Thomason. Umpire, Jenkins; scorer, Wilhelm.

Second Game.

First inning—Greensboro—Gamble reached first on error by Sorrell, stole second and third, scored on a wild throw. Next three men out.

Auburn—McCarroll to first base on balls, stole second and third, scored on Walker's hit; Walker stole second, went to third on wild throw, scored on pass ball. Next three men out successively.

Second inning—Greensboro—Waller hits safe and scored on short-stop's error; Farrick out to Elmer; Gamble out on fielder's choice; James out from Sequira to Elmer.

Auburn—Sequira out from Farrick to James; Jackson same; Patterson struck out.

Third inning—Greensboro—Cleveland led off with hit, stole second, went to third on wild throw and scored on Jewett's error of Thomson's hit; Thomson out trying to steal second; Skinner struck out; Sessions out from Hogg to Elmer.

Auburn—McCarroll base hit, stole second, followed by Walker's home-run; Jewett's hit safe, stole second, scored on Thomson's error of Sorrell's hit; Hogg struck out; Elmer out to centerfield; Sequira struck out.

Fourth inning—Greensboro—Waller out from Hogg to Elmer; Farrick out from Sequira to Elmer; Gamble struck out.

Auburn—Jackson out from Thomson to James; Patterson hits safe, stole second, scored on Thomson's error of Carroll's hit; Walker hits safe, scoring McCarroll; Jewett scores Walker, stole third and scored on Sorrell's out to left field; Hogg out to center.

Fifth inning—Greensboro—Dunlap out from Patterson to Elmer; James out from Sequira to Elmer; Cleveland struck out.

Auburn—Elmer hits safe, stole second, scored on Sequira's three-base hit; Jackson hits safe, scoring Sequira; Jackson out at second; Patterson out to third; McCarroll out from Sessions to James.

Sixth inning—Greensboro—Hits by Thomson, Skinner, Sessions and Gamble coupled with Patterson's error of Waller's hit; netted Greensboro two runs.

Auburn—Walker out to center; Jewett out to left; Sorrell safe on errors, but put out on second.

Seventh inning—Greensboro—Dunlap out to Jewett; James hits safe; Cleveland struck out; Thomson out from Hogg to Elmer.

Auburn—Hogg out to first on ground ball; Elmer out to left; Sequira out from Farrick to James.

Eighth inning—Greensboro—Skinner gets base on balls; Sessions safe on Sorrell's error; Waller hits safe, scoring Skinner; Farrick hits safe, scoring Sessions; Waller out attempting to steal third; Farrick scored on Gamble's and Dunlap's hits; James out to Patterson and Cleveland out to Sorrell on flies.

Auburn—Jackson out from Skinner to James; Patterson hits safe and thrown out at second; McCarroll out to center.

Ninth inning—Greensboro—Thomson out from Hogg to Elmer; Skinner struck out; Sessions out to short-stop. Three-base hits, Sequira; home runs, Walker; struck out by Hogg, 7; by Sessions, 4; base on balls, Hogg 3; Sessions 1; wild pitches, Sessions 2; hit by pitched ball, Dunlap; stolen bases, Auburn 10, Greensboro 4; double plays, Walker to Elmer. Umpire, Mahoney; scorer, Wilhelm.

The Commencement Program.

The exercises this year at Commencement promise to be very interesting. The gentlemen who will make the addresses are all men of distinguished standing in their various professions, and the students and public are to be congratulated upon the excellent personnel of the programme.

Bishop W. A. Candler

Who will deliver the Commencement Sermon, is one of the most scholarly and influential clergymen in the Methodist church. He is a native of Georgia, his brother being Governor of that State. Bishop Candler is a graduate of Emory, of which institution he was for years the successful President. He has held some of the leading appointments in his denomination. He is a man of wide reading, has a chaste diction and a strong logical way of putting his subject.

Rev. Edgar Gardner Murphy

Is the orator before the Literary Societies. Mr. Murphy is a native of Texas and a graduate of Sewanee. For years he was the rector of the large and influential Episcopal church, St. John's, in Montgomery, Ala. Withdrawing from this charge, he accepted the position of Executive Secretary on the Board of the Conference for Education in the South.

This organization is composed of leading educators, philanthropists and citizens of the North and South, and is devoting large sums of money in behalf of public schools in the South.

Mr. Murphy is pleasantly remembered here for his eloquent address delivered by invitation of the Faculty in the autumn on the subject of "The Patriotism of Efficiency." Mr. Murphy has a name that sounds of Ireland, and he certainly has the faculty of the sons of Erin for enthusiastic, moving eloquence.

Chancellor J. H. Kirkland, Ph. D., (Leipric), LL.D.

The speaker for Commencement Day, is the Chancellor of Vanderbilt University, and is one of the leading educators in the South. For many years he held the chair of Latin in that institution, but for sometime now has been the head of his great institution. He is a ripe scholar, a deep thinker, and one of the most successful college Presidents in the land. He is the real executive head of the Association of Southern Colleges and Preparatory Schools, an organization that has done much to elevate the standard of admiration to College, and to systematize the work of colleges and schools. Vanderbilt men, we also know, can play football.

J. F. Webb, Esq.

Will deliver the Alumni Address. Mr. Webb graduated B. S. '93, M. S. '94. He is Webb primus of the three brothers who have received their education at Auburn. Since 1896 he has been a lawyer of the firm Dozer & Webb, Talladega, Ala. He is a hard student, a fluent, graceful speaker, and is regarded as one of the most prominent young members of his profession.

Auburn Lost Third Game By Wretched Playing.

The Game Was Devoid of Interest From Beginning to End,

The last game was very disappointing to all; it seemed as if scarcely any effort was put forth by our team to win the entire series. It would probably be unjust to censure our team too much as it is very probable that they were too much wearied out by the first two games to do just what they were capable of doing. Greensboro's work was fast and characterized by the same vim and energy as they showed in the other two games.

The game in detail is as follows:

In the first inning two bases on balls, a hit, two men hit by pitched ball coupled with two errors, netted Greensboro four runs. Auburn then made her first and only run on a base on balls, stolen base, and error by Dunlap.

In the second inning four hits, three bases on balls and three errors netted the visitors seven runs. Elmer out from Farrick to Jones, Sequira and Jackson struck out.

sundry trippings of the light "bombastic" toe all promise a very gay week of it at fair Auburn during the Commencement of 1902. The music will as usual be furnished by the delightful Worm's Orchestra from Atlanta, and we doubt not that it will be up to its high standard.

The Literary Societies.

The attendance in the Literary Societies Saturday night was scarcely up to the encouraging numbers of the last previous meetings, for the reason, doubtless, that many of the students were short on time on account of the three ball games Friday and Saturday. The interest, however, was marked, indeed, was enthusiastic. A good address was given by Rev. Mr. Napier on the the Literary Society Life at Mercer University, of which institution he is an alumnus. He also dwelt upon the great value and advantages of the ability to express one's thoughts in a forcible, attractive way. To think upon one's feet, he regarded, as a great power, an ability that gives one large influence in all bodies of men, whether in church affairs, politics or community life of any kind. He was followed by Prof. Thach, who emphasized and elaborated the points already made. Prof. Thach traced briefly the relation between the growth and spread of Freedom and the power of eloquent speech.

The addresses were followed by the routine work of the Societies. Several new men were present.

Rev. Mr. Jeter will present to the Societies at their next meeting a sketch of the Literary Society work at the University of Alabama and Sewanee.

Wirt Society.

The attendance has increased since Term Examinations. The boys are taking more interest in the Society work, and we hope that the attendance will continue good during the remainder of the year. There is no reason why we should not have full attendance, and we desire the presence of every member at the next meeting, as some important business will come before the Society at that time.

The following officers have been elected for the present month:

C. H. Billingsley—President.
F. F. Newman—Vice-President.
C. S. Culver—Secretary.
H. Dunge—Treasurer.

Greensboro did not score until the fifth inning, when they added four runs by as many hits, base on balls and two errors. From this on Greensboro played a fast fielding and were never in danger of losing the lead that was taken early in the game. Greensboro added three more runs in the sixth inning by two hits, base on balls and two errors.

In the eighth they added two more on two hits, base on balls and two errors.

Two-base hit Walker, struck out by Sorrell 1, Hogg 2, Sessions 7. Base on balls, Sorrell 4, Hogg 3, Sessions 1. Wild pitches, Sorrell 2. Hit by pitched balls, Sessions, Thomson and Cleveland.

Double plays, Skinner and Farrick to James. Stolen bases, Auburn 5, Greensboro 4.

Umpire, Mahoney. Scorer, Wilhelm.

I. Kimbell—Critic.

On March 29th we had Prof. Thach and Rev. Mr. Dannelly with us. On April 5th we had the pleasure of having Prof. Thach and Rev. Mr. Napier with us. They addressed us on the importance of Literary Society work. We appreciate their visits, and hope to have them with us again.

On April the 12th we will have Profs. Thach and Ross and Rev. Mr. Jeter. Mr. Jeter will tell us about the Societies at the University of Alabama and Mercer.

All students have a special invitation to attend, and hear the addresses at this meeting.

C. H. BILLINGSLEY.

Football Schedule.

The schedule of games arranged so far for next year's football season is an excellent one. It includes the following games:

Tuscaloosa, Oct. 18—Montgomery.
Tulane, Oct. 25—New Orleans.
University of La., Oct. 27—Baton Rouge.
Sewanee, Nov. 6—Birmingham.
University of Ga., Thanksgiving—Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus B. Tony, of Nashville, Tenn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Stahlman to Mr. Henry A. Skeggs, of Decatur, Ala. Owing to the recent death of an uncle of Miss Toney, the wedding will be attended only by the near relatives of both families. It will be solemnized at 6 o'clock in the evening of April 30, at the bride's home, Vauxhall Place, and Dr. J. D. Barber will officiate. Mr. and Mrs. Skeggs will leave later in the evening for a Southern trip. On their return they will reside in Nashville. Miss Toney has visited here and has many friends in Decatur. She is attractive in appearance and has a grace and charm of manner that makes friends for her of every one with whom she associates. Mr. Skeggs is a member of one of the oldest families in North Alabama, being a son of Judge and Mrs. William E. Skeggs. He is a graduate of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, Ala.—Ex.

Contributions for the ORANGE AND BLUE should be given the Editors not later than Monday of the week of issue. All business should be addressed to the Business Manager.

All interest is now centered upon our baseball team.

Pay up your subscription to the Orange and Blue. All subscriptions should have been paid long before. We are badly in need of the money, in fact, we must have it if we continue the paper.

The board of editors decided at their last meeting that it would be best to change the Orange and Blue back to its original size, but still continue to issue it weekly. This will entail a great deal more work on the editors and it is to be hoped that the students will appreciate this by paying up their past dues at an early date.

At last it seems that the interest in literary societies will revive. Several enthusiastic members of the old societies, aided by the members of the faculty, have been able to hold regular weekly meetings for the last two or three times. From the reports we have received, it is evident that the literary spirit is manifesting itself a great deal more than it has hitherto this year. If there is any one department that we need stimulating in, it is certainly the literary.

Our schedule for next year's football games has been partially arranged; the teams that we have contracted games with are either themselves first-class or come from first-class colleges. Not only have we a good schedule, but we will have that which caused us a great deal of trouble and worry to obtain last season, money with which to begin.

The work of our team was a surprise and a source of satisfaction to all. We have the best chances this year for a winning team than we have had. Let us take advantage of the opportunity and assist the team in every way we can. The financial problem we should see solved as soon as possible. This will relieve the manager of a great embarrassment and what is far more make the team feel that their hard and conscientious training is not wholly unappreciated. Show the team a willingness to support them throughout the coming season and you need not fear the result.

Opinions of the Two Coaches.

Mr. Bailey, Greensboro's coach, stated that in his opinion Jewett and McCarroll, two of Auburn's star players were far beyond the average amateur, when it comes to base running.

Mr. Wilhelm, Auburn's coach, expressed the greatest satisfaction in the work done by his team. He intends putting the team through hard practices in order to correct the weak points brought out by these games.

College Spirit.

We copy the following from the University (Mississippi) Record as it seems to show some of the many points that Auburn is deficient in. Enthusiasm here is not as high as it should be, especially when it comes to baseball.

Let us wake up. We have a team that we should be proud of and one that we should justly encourage.

"Since 'the trial of outlaw politics' we have been unable to scare up enthusiasm. What in this wide world do we intend to do, 'let 'er go?' Is that the idea? Since there is no such warming agent as politics, are we to let a handful of students manage the University affairs? We want some answers to these questions. You are just as much to blame as 'the rest of the boys' for this lull in college spirit and you ought to revive your own interest. We are afraid that the student body has concluded that 'any old man will do' for these positions of honor, that there is no use to look about and pick out a real good man because politics is a thing of the past and the first name proposed will be carried through.

"Now there is something in this. If you do think we are talking to spend time and let off steam. You must put a stop to this laxness, come up to your post and hold it as you were always wont to do; let no such thing as lack of interest enter your thoughts, in fact be the same alert, interested, loyal student you formerly were.

The Patriotism of Efficiency.

Some time ago it was our privilege to listen to an excellent address by Dr. Edgar Gardner Murphy on "The Patriotism of Efficiency." We have been fortunate in securing a few extracts of this lecture and publish them below for the benefit of those who were so unlucky as to miss the address; and also for those who heard it, for we think such literary gems will easily bear repetition. In the course of his address Dr. Murphy said: "I believe the time has come to regard every problem in America simply as an appeal to a national patriotism. When the need of our countrymen called to the South from Johnstown, Pa., thousands of dollars passed from the South over Mason and Dixon's line. Again, thousands of dollars, nay, hundreds of thousands of dollars, passed over that line when the appeal from Galveston and from Jacksonville knocked at the door of the North. In the presence of a political theory or a political conviction men may divide, but in the presence of a great human need must and will unite. There can be no sectionalism in the presence of a great national emergency. Before the deepest problems of our civilization we are conscious of but one country.

"This day of ours is the heir of a new patriotism. Back of the patriotism of arms, back of the patriotism of our civic life, there must be the patriotism of efficiency. It is the patriotism of industrial power. It is the patriotism of social fitness and economic value. It is the passion of usefulness. The man must be worth something to his country; his country must be worth something to the world. In the interest of our country and of our world, it covets for every human life that emancipation which means the freeing of capacity. It realizes that the good of one life, comes only out of the fullness of all life, that no power is safe that reposes solely upon the weakness of another; that no liberty is safe that depends upon the slavery of another; that no knowledge is safe or sound that bases itself upon the ignorance of another; and that no wealth has reached the fullness of the distinction and its happiness which depends for its existence solely upon the poverty of another. It is to the immediate interest of every man, that every other man should have something to give. In so far as every life becomes a producer and a contributor, every other life becomes a beneficiary. To bring others into their own believing, hoping and living—this is religion; to share with others the powers of acquiring and thriving and rejoicing—this is wealth; to open to others the liberties of thinking and knowing and achieving—this is education; to enlarge for others the glory, thronging masses of men alive and radiant with those capacities and efficiencies which redeem the waste and silence of the world—this is, indeed, the supreme efficiency; and of living—this is life; this I believe to be the supreme patriotism."

Competent.

"Miss Bluff seems to be at the dress-maker's a good deal of the time."
"Yes. She's getting ready to go to the mother's congress. She reads a paper there, you know. It's on 'The elevating influence of an infant on its maternal parent.' They say it's just beautiful. She's put some of her own poetry in it, you know."

The American College for Women at Constantinople is the only Woman's College in Western Asia, and southeastern Europe, and it is said that there are few institutions in the world that hold a place of so much importance in educational influence. The language of the college is English, but there are strong departments in almost every other language, to meet the needs of the students who go there, for they come from Greece, Armenia, Bulgaria, Germany, Russia, and Asia. This college was founded in 1871.—Ex.

The Freshman always fears lest he may die before graduating; the Sophomore cares not if he does die, for he thinks he has acquired the sum of human knowledge; the Junior looks about sheepishly and wonders if there is a thing or two he failed to learn while a Sophomore; the Senior wonders if he shall ever learn anything; the alumnus knows that all men are ignorant; and the man whose head has silvered over while directing the institution, looks from his chair upon the frivolities of man and the constant beauties of nature, comprehends the Infinite, and says, "What fools we mortals be."

The Football Man Was Ready for More.

The two trains came together with an awful crash. Some one had blundered. That, however, was a matter which would have to be left for future investigation.

As soon as those who were uninjured could extricate themselves from the wreck they turned manfully to the work of rescuing their less fortunate fellow-passengers.

It was a sickening sight. Cars were heaped on top of one another. People were pinioned under seats, beams, and trucks. Steam was hissing from the overturned boilers, the rails of the track were warped and torn loose from the ties, and the moans and cries of the injured could be heard afar off.

Finally, after long, hard work, the rescuers reached the bottom of the mass, where the legs and body of a man protruded from beneath a twisted platform. Beside him lay a cane decorated with colored ribbons, and a long tin horn.

Fearfully and anxiously a score of strong men lifted the weight from the head and shoulders of the prostrate one, and carried him up the embankment. As they reached the higher level he opened his eyes, passed a hand in front of them, as if brushing away a film or screen of some kind, and shouted:

"Rah, rah, rah! Sizz, boom, ah! Ki-yi, hip, hip, hoo-gah yah! Come on, fellows! Which side has the ball?"—Exchange.

Eloquent on Both Sides.

Senator Gorman of Maryland in a recent speech in Baltimore said: "I remember during my former service in the United States senate when we had quite a sharp division in our ranks. One very great man introduced a resolution which some of us thought was unwise. He made a half hour speech, full of eloquence and force, in favor of this resolution. Just before he sat down I caught his eye and shook my head. The great man turned at once to the president. 'Mr. President,' he said, 'that was one side of the question. There is another side.' He then spoke with equal eloquence and force against the resolution for half an hour. He said it was too serious a matter to take snap judgment on and ended by moving to adjourn. Afterward he came over to me and asked, 'What the devil is it all about anyway?'"

Auburn's Reputation.

The following quotation from The Olive and Blue (Tulane University) shows the position that we hold in the Southern football world:

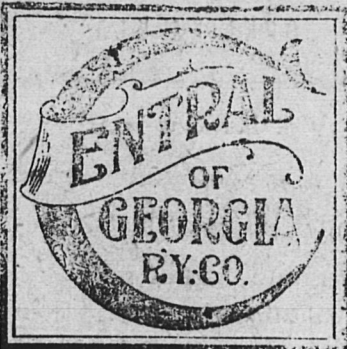

"Still, the schedule for next fall is likely to prove the best that has been offered in a number of years. It is intended to include seven games, beginning October 25th with the strong team of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, of Auburn, Alabama."

The Southern Gentleman.

In one respect Southern civilization excels that of any other part of Christendom. In all countries the aristocratic feeling exists, and we are not prepared to controvert the proposition that it is a good thing; but nowhere but in the South is it based upon character. In the old countries wealth or noble birth give a man social position and entitle him gentleman. The Southern gentleman is the true gentleman. He is a genteel man and a gentleman; that is, he is well-bred, decent, kind and affable. His claims to respectability are not based upon his wealth; for, indeed, he has none; but he justifiably prides himself on being the child of well-bred parents who gave him good training as well as a heritage of good blood. He is easily recognized by people of discernment. He need not be wealthy, or learned, but he must be courteous and deferential without obsequiousness; kind and considerate of others; clean in his person and his morals, and natural and unaffected in his manners. The snob or imitation gentleman may be quickly recognized by his affectation, his obtrusiveness, his loud and vulgar manner and dress, his undue familiarity with his superiors, and particularly with ladies; his obsequiousness and servility; his swagger and absurd pretensions. Such a fellow, lacking in natural qualities and home training, strives for admiration and wins contempt; desiring to be counted a gentleman, can never attain a higher title than that of "sport" or "hustler."

Prefix one qualifying word to gentleman, and you have the highest type of man—Christian gentleman.

of the board do his part and let each subscriber do his by paying his subscription and thereby everything will work easy on every one.

Football Origin.

The Kansas City Independent gives the following account of the origin of football:

"Where did football originate?
Some people give ancient Chester, in England, credit for bringing the great winter pastime into existence. There is a record football playing in that city in the year of 1540, but Cestrians believe in a legend of much earlier date. In the tenth century, it is said, a Dane was captured and beheaded by the citizens.
Some one began kicking the head about the streets, others followed, and it was discovered that this formed a new and fascinating sport. This was repeated whenever possible; but the enemy's heads became scarce the entertainment of kicking them more difficult to procure, it was at last arranged "for the shoemaker's yearly on Shrove Tuesday to deliver to the draper, in the presence of the mayor of Chester . . . one ball of leather, called a football, of the value of three shillings and fourpence or above." There is evidently a fine precedent for those concerned in the game "losing their heads."—Ex.

New College.

The following newspaper clipping, under the above heading, has been found in an old scrap book of Colonel Samford's and seems to have been published in October, 1859.

"Eds. Mail:

"It may interest the people of Alabama to know that the East Alabama
Male College, situated in Auburn, Macon County, opened its exercises on the first Wednesday in October, with a much larger number of students than its most sanguine friends had anticipated. It has now (the second week) between seventy and eighty students, and is receiving accessions almost every day. All the regular College classes, from the Freshman to the Senior, are represented. Such a beginning, we presume no other College in this country ever had. Judging from first appearances, we suppose no institution ever had, for the same number, a finer body of young men.

"The friends of the institution are greatly encouraged. It is believed that it is destined to be an agency of immense usefulness to the State. It is certainly a no unimportant event, the establishment and successful opening of a first class Male College, immediately in the midst of a people, so numerous and intelligent, and so well prepared to sustain such an enterprise, as are the people of East Alabama. The provision had not been made sooner than the wants of the people indicated an urgent demand for it.

"Dr. Sannett brings to the Presidency of this promising institution the very highest qualifications of both character and attainments. A large experience in the duties of College education, and an eminent devotion to practical results combine to render him efficient in his office. He is at his post, and laboriously laying the foundation of this new College, on the rock.

"Professors Glenn and Dunklin are equal to all the demands of their responsible stations as Professors of Languages and Mathematics. They are active, working, thoroughly trained instructors.

"Indeed, the work has been done!—
the consummation has been attained!—
a splendid triumph has been achieved!—and East Alabama can now boast, in active operation, as good a College as can be found in any State!
A new life will henceforth invigorate and elevate every public interest in this part of Alabama. Heaven send propitious gales to waft this grand enterprise of enlightened patriotism and practical Christianity, with its precious freight, over every sea of storm and peril, to the distant ages.

"WM. F. SAMFORD,
"Sunny Slope, (near Auburn), Ala., Oct. 22, —."
